

David Bolton was recruited into the insurance business by the largest life insurance broker at the time, before graduating from the University of Portland. Mr. Bolton was promoted to Brokerage Manager and a decade later, followed his boss to Standard Insurance Company. He was promoted to the Senior level at Standard and has been working for the Oregon Insurance Commissioner for the last twenty-five years. During this time he has earned numerous life and health designations and held numerous positions in our local life and health associations. Mr. Bolton been a chosen speaker on insurance topics, a lead reviewer for CARFRA national product filings and participated in the development of the national compact product standards.